FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SANMINA-SCI DEFENSE AND AEROSPACE SYSTEMS DIVISION'S FIRECOMM™
SELECTED BY ALENIA AERONAUTICAAirborne Intercommunications System to Be Integrated Into C-27J*

SAN JOSE, Calif. – October 8, 2007 – Sanmina-SCI Corporation (Nasdaq NM: SANM), a leading global electronics manufacturing services (EMS) company, today announced its Defense and Aerospace Systems Division's third-generation FireComm™ intercommunications system has been selected by Alenia Aeronautica, a Finmeccanica Company, for integration into the C-27J Joint Cargo Aircraft.

The FireComm system will provide the C-27J crew members with advanced capabilities in terms of digital audio and data processing, enhanced voice warning, secure wireless capabilities, and an open architecture to support both network-centric operations and the integration of evolving technologies at the lowest possible cost.

"We are extremely proud to produce the FireComm system for Alenia Aeronautica and the aviators that will fly the C-27J. Our design and engineering, manufacturing and quality services will result in outstanding system performance for the entire C-27J Joint Cargo Aircraft team," said Jim Cocke, Senior Vice President of Sanmina-SCI's Defense and Aerospace Systems Division.

Sanmina-SCI is a proven leader in airborne intercommunications systems with more than 40 years of experience in the Defense and Aerospace industry. This award leverages the previous successful integration of digital audio and data intercommunications systems into numerous other fixed and rotary wing aircraft.

The FireComm airborne intercommunications system is being designed and manufactured by the Sanmina-SCI Defense and Aerospace Systems Division in Huntsville, Alabama. For more information on FireComm, visit <http://www.sanmina-sci.com/das> or call +1.256.882.4569.
